The ABHA Card (Ayushman Bharat Health Account), which stands for Aadhaar-based Basic Health Assistance, is a government-sponsored initiative that provides health benefits to the poor. The camp was organized in collaboration with PHC Kasegaon in Adopted Village Shene.

The ABHA Card Registration Camp began at 8 a.m., with 20 NSS volunteers actively participating in the camp's setup and organizing. The volunteers were taught and directed by PHC Kasegaon, Asha Workers officials. The camp was well-organized, with numerous stations set up for tasks such as registration, document verification, biometric data collecting, and issuance. The NSS department made efforts to increase information about the camp through posters, announcements, and door-to-door marketing in the Adopted Village of Shene. Throughout the camp, volunteers from the NSS department actively supported enrolled participants, guiding them through various stations and giving required support.

During the program, 150 people enrolled for ABHA Cards. According to the government's instructions, the registration procedure involved collecting demographic information, document verification, and biometric data. The enrolled persons were given soft copies of their ABHA cards on the spot, and the volunteers also highlighted the benefits and usage of the card, including access to numerous government health services and initiatives. Apart from registration, the camp gave information on various government health schemes and services that might benefit the enrolled individuals, such as health insurance, vaccination programs, and primary healthcare clinics.
